With globalization increasing, it's more important than ever to learn about other cultures. There's no better way to understand a new culture than by learning its language. This is what FLS International has been about for over 30 years.

By joining an FLS program, students improve their English, gain an understanding of other cultures and develop their independence. Studying overseas can be life-changing, leading students to challenge themselves, increase their personal growth, and find their true passion.

Testimonials

“This story might sound unbelievable, but it’s true. A lot of native speakers are surprised I’ve been living in the US for only three years! FLS is what began it all. I feel so fortunate to have been here. Teachers have amazed and inspired me daily. Then, they helped me to grow! Look! I’m ready to fly now! They are really welcoming, friendly, and helpful. That’s why I still visit my teachers even though I graduated from FLS three years ago! I’m thankful for all the FLS teachers and friends I met here. They changed my thought and gave me motivation to live in California. What can I do for FLS now? I can only say thank you!

—Mariko, Past FLS Student (Japan)

“I have had a great time here and had lots of new and wonderful experiences with FLS. FLS students take all of their classes with qualified professional teachers who have Master’s and PhD degrees. But even though I came here to learn English, if I took only classes in a classroom, I would get bored and lose interest. Fortunately FLS always prepares various activities for their students. The most impressive one that I have done recently is a field trip to test a new app. We went to a software company together and tested their new app and gave them our feedback. It was a great experience, because I could visit their office and get to know how they worked and developed their software. FLS always makes their students get interested and experience new things. Wonderful!

—Sungmo Han (Korea)

“I have been in many schools but at FLS International administration staff really cares if students do well and go to school. In other schools, they don’t care if you come or not. I also like the fact that everything is well organized. On one hand, education is demanding and on a high level on the other, you can ask for non- standard things and they will be done. This is also the first time I have attended activities in any school and it was great to see that they actually care if we are having a good time...My progress is visible. I want to say something about homestay. The prices are affordable and they really listen to what you need. So you can live almost any way you like.

—Abdalla, FLS Student (Saudi Arabia)

“Southern California is an amazing mix of diverse cultures that gives students an unforgettable exposure to many aspects of America. At FLS you will be part of a supportive community that will help you to be a better English speaker, grow as a person, and make progress toward your life goals.

—Dr. Brent Davis, FLS Instructor (Citrus Campus)

Volunteering Opportunities

Now more than ever, students are looking for ways to reach out and contribute to the community around them.

Volunteering is not only a chance to assist others and connect with the community, but is also a great way to meet Americans and gain valuable real-world experience.

Selective colleges and universities are searching for well-rounded candidates when making admission decisions. Having experience in community assistance programs is an excellent way to round out a student's background and show their diverse interests. Not only that, but volunteering often provides memorable experiences that can last a lifetime.

FLS has carefully selected the perfect volunteer opportunities for international students. Participants in the program will gain practice in speaking English and valuable insights into American culture in a structured environment.

Each FLS center offers unique volunteer opportunities based on the specific requirements of their community.

We work with organizations from food banks and women's shelters to schools and convalescent homes, offering a wide range of experiences.

Best of all, students enrolled in FLS classes can participate in these opportunities at no additional charge!
